Example of computation of fee:

- (6) After the Registrar received the request for preliminary advice and search, the Registrar shall examine the application to see if the request fulfill the requirements as specified in subparagraph (1) and if all the requirements are adhered to, the request for preliminary advice and search will be examined based on absolute grounds under section 23, relative grounds under section 24 and other grounds under the Act.

- (8) The results issued by the Registrar under subparagraph (7) are either in—
 - (a) affirmative; or
 - (b) not affirmative.

Filing of application for registration following issuance of advice and search result

- 5. (1) After the applicant had received the result of the Registrar and the result is in affirmative, the applicant may file an application for registration of a trademark according to section 17 of the Act.

Explanation:

It is advisable to apply as soon as possible after the applicant received the affirmative result from the Registrar so as to avoid any other trademark to apply for registration of an identical or similar trademark within the same period before the applicant files an application for registration with the Registrar.

- (2) In filing the application for registration under section 17 of the Act under subparagraph (1), the applicant shall be required to fill in the preliminary advice and search reference number in the space provided in the application for registration of a trademark.

Application for refund of fee of application for registration of a trademark

6. (1) An applicant who files an application for registration of trademark with the Registrar after obtaining an affirmative result of preliminary advice and search by the Registrar and subsequently receives a notification of provisional refusal after the examination of the application for registration of trademark, he may request the Registrar to refund the fee of an application according to subsection 13(2) of the Act.
- (2) The applicant who wishes to request for the refund of fee of the application for registration of a trademark shall do so by filing the request for refund together with the payment of the prescribed fee.
- (3) Before filing the request for refund of fee, the applicant must file a request for withdrawal of his application for registration of a trademark by filing the withdrawal form and pay the prescribed fee.
- (4) The withdrawal must be made within two months from the date the applicant received the provisional refusal.

- (5) After receiving the request for refund, the Registrar shall consider whether the applicant fulfills the requirement for refund.
- (6) There are two situations when refund of fee of application for registration of a trademark can be given as follows:
- (a) if the application for registration of a trademark received provisional refusal based on absolute grounds.

Illustration for (a): Based on provisional refusal on absolute grounds

An applicant had applied for preliminary advice and search. After examination, the Registrar issued an affirmative result to that preliminary advice & search that the trademark can be registered.

Acting on the advice, the applicant proceeds to make an application to register his trademark. However, later on, the applicant received a provisional refusal based on absolute grounds. Since the provisional refusal was based on absolute grounds, the applicant is entitled to get refund on the fee paid for his application to register his trademark.

- (b) if the application for registration of a trademark received provisional refusal based on relative grounds due to error

Illustration for (b): Based on provisional refusal on relative grounds because of examiner's error

An applicant had applied for preliminary advice and search on 1 August 2020. After conducting the examination, the Registrar issued an affirmative result on 15 August 2020 that the trademark can be registered.

Acting on the advice, the applicant proceeds to make an application to register his trademark on 16 August 2020. However, later on, the applicant received a provisional refusal based on relative grounds. The earlier mark was applied on 15 July 2020. Thus, the earlier mark should be on record during the Registrar's examination of the request for preliminary advice and search.

In this situation, the applicant is entitled to get refund on the fee paid for his application to register his trademark.

- (7) Notwithstanding subparagraph (6), there are two situations where refund of fee of application for registration of a trademark cannot be given as follows:
- (a) If the application for registration of a trademark received provisional refusal on relative grounds out of control of Registrar;

Illustration for (a): provisional refusal on relative grounds out of control of examiner.

An applicant had applied for preliminary advice and search for a trademark on 1 August 2020. After examination, the Registrar issued an affirmative result of the preliminary advice & search on 15 August 2020 that the trademark can be registered.

Acting on the advice, the applicant proceed to make an application to register his trademark on 20 August 2020. However, another person had applied for an identical or similar trademark on 17 August 2020.

Later on, the applicant received a provisional refusal based on relative grounds. The earlier trademark was entered into the record after the Registrar had given the result of the request of preliminary advice & search but before the applicant had made an application to register his trademark.

In this case, the existence of the earlier trademark is well beyond the control of the examiner. Thus, the applicant cannot apply for refund of fee under this circumstance.

- (b) If the application for registration of a trademark received provisional refusal on absolute grounds or relative grounds on the classes that were not part of the classes applied for during preliminary advice & search.

Illustration for (b): Provisional refusal on absolute or relative grounds on the classes that were not part of the classes applied for during preliminary advice and search.

The Applicant applied for preliminary advice and search for classes 3 and 5 on 1 August 2020. After examination, the examiner issued the preliminary advice and search result that the trademark can be registered on 15 August 2020.

Acting on the advice, the applicant proceed to make an application to register his trademark on 16 August 2020. However, the applicant had not only applied for goods or services in class 3 and 5 but also in class 44.

Later on, the applicant received a provisional refusal based on either absolute or relative grounds but only for goods in class 44. Since services in class 44 is not part of the classes applied for during the application of preliminary advice and search, an applicant cannot get a refund on the fees paid for application for registering the trademark.
